ABSTRACT

[0043] An optical disk includes a label region having writable material.

Disk speed features are located in a manner which allows them to be readable when writing to the label region.